

The importance of monomer conformation in amyloid formation of α -synuclein splice variants

Katherine M. Dewison¹, Alexander I. P. Taylor¹, David J. Brockwell¹, Sheena E. Radford¹

¹Astbury Centre for Structural Molecular Biology, University of Leeds, UK

k.m.dewison@leeds.ac.uk

UNIVERSITY OF LEEDS

Acknowledgments

I wish to thank everyone in the Radford/Brockwell laboratory for helpful discussions and insights. Special thanks to Dr Leon Willis for help with multivariate analyses. Thank you to the EM facility in the Astbury Centre and Fidabio for helpful discussions during data acquisition. I also wish to thank the Medical Research Council and Wellcome Trust for funding and the FASEB 2025 organisers and Fidabio for financial contributions towards my attendance at the conference.

References

[1] Beyer K et al., Neurogenetics (2008) [2] Brudek T et al., Journal of Neurochemistry (2016) [3] Michaels T et al., PhysRevE (2019) [4] Tesse G and Lindorff-Larsen K., Open Res. Eur. (2023) [5] Röntgen A et al., PNAS (2024) [6] SanGiovanni D et al., Protein Sci. (2025)